

Community Help

Share your ideas with the Adobe Community

Are you passionate about Adobe products? Do you have knowledge and examples to share? It's easy to do with Adobe Community Help. You can add comments on Adobe content pages, link to your website or blog, or contribute an article on adobe.com. You'll get credit, recognition, and points.

WHY contribute?

When you add your voice to the collective expertise, you help the Adobe community and yourself.

- Get exposure. Your name appears on your post, and can include your website or blog.
- Get published. Our publishers are looking for great community content for Adobe books.
- Get points. You earn points that appear in your Adobe.com profile.

Top contributors are candidates for Adobe's Community Help Moderator or Community Experts programs <http://www.adobe.com/communities/experts/>. You have the opportunity to submit your Cookbook or Community Publishing contributions for inclusion in upcoming books in the Adobe Press How To or Adobe Developer Library Cookbook series.

HOW to contribute

We have lots of ways for you to share content, from simple comments on Adobe content in Help and Developer Connection to quick answers on Forums questions. Share your original content in any format through Adobe Community Publishing. You can share a Google Knol, a great blog post, a video tutorial, or a book. Go to the Community Help contributions page to download the Community Publishing AIR app <http://www.adobe.com/community/publishing/download.html>. Or link directly to Cookbooks, Adobe Forums, or Help.
