Origins & nature of the Trajan letters

The Trajan typeface was wildly successful. Trajan is seen frequently in advertising and in book publishing. Trajan's structural clarity, its clear and straightforward lines, were ideal for signifying excellence and weight. Trajan supplied a visual panache to the late 19th and early 20th century Chicago School of Design, an association that was created as a reaction to the overcrowded and maximum effect. Yet the chiseled lines are not simple.

The Origin of the Serif

In the early days of human history, and particularly in the history of Roman art, material and technological limitations dictated the form that lettering assumed. The visual logic of the natural motion of ending a brushstroke. Certainly there were other forms of serifs and kinds of letters, but in the process of cutting and forming the letters, the end of the brushstroke was adapted to fit together and harmonize with each other. As the historian of letters Nicolete Gray
