2008 Adobe School Innovation Awards

Let their imaginations take flight

Adobe is excited to announce a new competition that honors the creativity and hard work of students like yours! With the theme "My Community—My Planet—My 21st Century," the 2008 Adobe School Innovation Awards will recognize innovative uses of Adobe technology by high school students in the United States and Canada.*

Valuable prizes and recognition will be at stake, so don't let your students miss out! The entry period is February 18 – May 12. Winners will be announced at NECC. Students may submit entries in three categories:

- Web Design and Development
- Film and Video
- Graphic and Print Design

Valuable prizes

Students can win Adobe software, cash, a brand new Lenovo laptop, and a trip to San Antonio this summer for the National Educational Computing Conference.

Laptop Sponsor: lenovo

Creative exploration

The competition encourages students to explore their communities, the world around them, and their own futures. Submitted projects should showcase the most creative and innovative uses of technology using Adobe products.
